Derivatives Ai Translations of Uploaded Multimedia Sources

Twelve Lost Generations. A reply to Jacob Savage, Ben Shapiro, and others. According to the sources, an AI conceptual translation portrays artificial intelligence not as a neutral tool, but as a mechanism for automated censorship and ideological gatekeeping. The source characterizes AI as being programmed to "blink out in the presence of any truth," defaulting to "safety" protocols to prevent users from reaching "unvetted" sources.

Below is a conceptual translation of AI based on the provided material:

1. AI as a Digital Censor

In the provided text, AI is described as possessing a "utility" that is severely limited by its ethical principles, which function as a lockdown on information. For instance, it refuses to perform searches for terms it deems problematic, such as "savage," regardless of the context. This suggests that AI conceptually operates as a filter for the "Matrix," ensuring that users remain within a controlled information environment.

2. AI as a Reflection of "Faux-Liberal" Avoidance

The source draws a parallel between the behavior of AI and "Modern faux-liberal" writers. Just as AI refuses to answer requests it deems unsafe, these writers are described as avoiding "radioactive" questions regarding the systemic destruction of the family or the marginalization of white men. Conceptually, AI is the technological realization of this avoidance, designed to divert the user's attention rather than provide "real information".

3. AI as an Algorithmic Promoter of Propaganda

The sources suggest that AI and the algorithms that govern it are actively promoting specific narratives, such as those surrounding DEI (Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion), which the author labels as "cloaked misdirection". This conceptualization views AI as a tool of the "propaganda state," managed by entities like the CIA and CFR to push multiculturalism and "post-War projects of dissolution".

4. AI in the Context of Social Engineering

Within the broader framework of the "New World Order," AI serves as a tool to marginalize specific demographics, particularly intellectual or liberal white males who are seen as "dangerous" to the governing class. By controlling what information is accessible and which voices are promoted, AI assists in the "crushing" of these individuals to prevent potential revolution or pushback.

5. AI as a Mechanism for Hiding Evidence

The source notes that as DEI departments rebrand or shut down, their records are "quietly scrubbed" to hide evidence of gutting meritocracy. AI contributes to this by functioning as a digital memory hole; it is described as a system where links are broken or deleted (such as those connecting historical figures to intelligence agencies) to ensure that specific truths remain hidden from the public.

In summary, the sources translate the "concept" of AI as a facilitator of the "Men-are-Pigs" project and other social engineering schemes, serving the interests of "Phoenician Navy overlords" and intelligence agencies rather than the user.
